Janea D. Matchett Joins The Keane Organization's Unclaimed Property Service Division

WAYNE, Pa., Oct 08, 2007 -- The Keane Organization today announced the expansion of its Unclaimed Property Service Division with the hiring of Janea D. Matchett as Project Manager of its new Atlanta, GA office.

Matchett, an attorney, joins Keane with a diverse background in unclaimed property consulting. Most recently, she provided independent consulting services through Matchett Associates LLC, a company she founded in 2005 to advise corporations on compliance with state unclaimed property laws. Prior to this, she concentrated on unclaimed property compliance with the tax practices of Deloitte and Ernst & Young, advising companies operating in the technology, finance, healthcare, retail, and manufacturing industries.

"We continue to expand our practice as part of our commitment to providing unparalleled expertise and customer service during our engagements," says Gail Warner, President of Keane's Unclaimed Property Services Division. "In part, interpreting legislation and monitoring the enforcement of unclaimed property laws in every state helps our clients proactively address compliance issues. Janea's experience in managing unclaimed property audits and knowledge of relevant law will be a great asset to our clients and the continued growth of Keane's Unclaimed Property Services division."

Matchett will report directly to Warner, and will be responsible for providing consulting services in the Atlanta market and throughout the Southeast.

"I am excited to join the industry leader in the field of unclaimed property compliance and risk management," said Matchett. "During times of heightened government scrutiny, companies need a partner to minimize their liabilities, and Keane has firmly held its position to serve as a holder advocate. I look forward to working with Gail and her team to further Keane's reputation and success in unclaimed property consulting and compliance."

Matchett holds a Bachelor of Science in Accounting from Johnson C. Smith University in Charlotte, NC and a Juris Doctor from Nova Southeastern University in Fort Lauderdale, FL.
