Companies Can Get a Complimentary Assessment of Unclaimed Property Risk with The Keane Organization

Keane's Automated, Web-based Risk Management Tool Provides a Real-Time Evaluation of Unclaimed Property Liability and Helps Companies Avoid Unnecessary Costs

Wayne, PA- July 24, 2007 – The Keane Organization today announced that companies can now receive a value added high-level assessment of their unclaimed property risk. This first ever assessment tool, available online and in real-time, is offered by Keane's Unclaimed Property Service Division (UPSD) and based on the firm's proprietary enterprise risk platform, Keane SCORE.

The assessment tool meets the growing needs of companies to have an understanding and, at minimum, a high level evaluation of their possible unclaimed property liabilities. Companies interested in the complimentary assessment can visit www.holderadvocate.com or contact Keane's UPSD directly at 610-232-0726 to arrange for a 30-question assessment. Upon completion of the assessment questions, companies will be supplied with compliance risk factors, action items to minimize risk and a SCORE to benchmark compliance levels with other similar companies.

Gail Warner, President of The Keane Organizations Unclaimed Property Services Division, explains, "State laws dictate anything from audit to substantial fines, penalties, and interest for non-compliance, yet many companies are not aware of the unclaimed property liability they assume under these laws. By offering this web-based assessment as a first-step to total compliance with unclaimed property laws, Keane's UPSD helps companies uncover potential compliance risks in less than 30 minutes."
